

Altrusa International of Findlay Club

In 1972, the Altrusa Club brought together a group of foreign-born women to learn about other cultures and customs, meet people and serve the community. Known today as the International Women of Hancock County (also known as the Findlay International Club) the club celebrated its proud history of service spanning over 40 years in Findlay and Hancock County. The ruby red anniversary cocktail reception was held at the Findlay Country Club. The mission of Altrusa International is to serve the community by achieving as a group what individuals cannot do alone. The club participates in many services projects, including providing scholarships for college students entering their senior year, providing books for the Family Center and helping at the Northwest Ohio Juvenile Diabetic Camp. The club also sponsors the Soles for Students project. Eligible members are singled out as recognized leaders in business, industry or a profession in the community. Meetings are held the 1st and 3rd Monday each month. For more information visit their website at: <http://tinyurl.com/AltrusaFindlay>
